

Elizabeth Hong
Business Analyst and Project Manager
Bloomberg LP

Liz graduated from Bryn Mawr College with an AB in psychology and a minor in sociology. After graduation, she joined a small consulting firm, Sightlines, LLC, to help colleges and universities across the country better manage their facilities investments. In 2008, Liz began her career at Bloomberg LP as a financial data analyst in Skillman, New Jersey. Liz now manages a team of analysts with a variety of technical skills to provide support to data analysts globally. She also works closely with the Research and Development department as a business analyst and project manager, overseeing the design and implementation of technological solutions to ensure quality and time to market of Bloomberg's financial data and analytics. Liz is active in the Women's Group at Bloomberg, dedicated to creating programs to recruit and support women within the company, as well as a mentorship program for new employees.