Jennifer Graf is the Head of Operations for Renaissance Technologies, LLC – a quantitative based hedge fund. She has spent over 15 years in financial services focusing on all aspects of operations. Over this time, she has developed professional expertise in identifying opportunities for process improvement, while increasing control through automation. Focus on the development and implementation of technical and non-technical solutions has been key to her success. Prior to joining Renaissance Technologies, Jennifer was a Vice President at Goldman Sachs supporting Private Wealth Management and Prime Brokerage businesses. During her time at Goldman Sachs, she worked in New York, London, Utah and New Jersey.

Jennifer received a BS in Finance from The College of New Jersey and an MBA in Management Consulting from Rutgers University. During her time at Goldman Sachs, she partnered with the University of Utah School of Business to develop an elective course spotlighting a variety of career opportunities in financial services. Jennifer facilitated the course for several semesters providing students with unique opportunity to interact with successful business professionals.

Jennifer is a member of 100 Women in Hedge Funds and lives with her husband and three daughters in Basking Ridge, NJ.
